NCPF Program Updates

CLASS 25 recently engaged in Personalized Competency-Based Education (PCBE) training on Friday, April 24th. PCBE is a classroom model where teachers move between groups of learners, facilitate discussions, help students explore and set goals, or engage in more direct instruction with a few students at a time. PCB classrooms may offer flexible seating and students participate in decisions about how and where they learn best. Students might work independently or in a group based on the task at hand.

PFs enjoyed the discussions around how they can best support these efforts as an administrator.

NCPF Program Updates cont'd.

CLASS 26 is eager to begin their internship experience and earlier this month, they participated in an online review of the required documentation. This was a great session to reassure PFs that we will be okay! For now, everyone is awaiting communication from their LEA to assign internship placements.

Commission Meeting

The NCPF and TP3 Commission met virtually on Tuesday, April 14, 2020 and it was great to see everyone! The collaborative conversations and meaningful work led to important decisions that will strengthen principal preparation across North Carolina. To access the agenda and minutes, click here.

The Commission would like to congratulate the following programs who recently received funding for Transforming Principal Preparation: ECU, UNCC, NCCU/CCRESA, and NCSU. Also, congratulations to NCSU and WCU for receiving grant renewals! You can find the RFP timeline for future grant awards here. To view the SEAA Operating Procedures, click here.

The next Commission meeting is scheduled to take place on July 30, 2020.

NC Principal Fellows Spotlight

Congratulations to Class 25 NCPF, Jamie Hrbolich (UNC at Charlotte) for being selected as the 2020 Principal Fellow Intern of the Year by her classmates!

Congratulations to Class 25 NCPF, Paul Garrity (Western Carolina University) for his selection by the NC School Executive Leadership faculty as the 2020 Courageous Leadership Award recipient!

We are so proud of you and look forward to seeing the positive impact you'll continue to make on North Carolina students!
